EXHIBITS

Portraits, an exhibition by Sarah Simmons

Join us at Sweetwater Center for the Arts for the opening reception of Portraits, an exhibition by Sarah Simmons on Friday March 24, from 5-8 p.m. This event is free and open to the public. Refreshments will be provided.

Portraits is an exhibition of sculpture and collage of everyday women reimaged in new, elevated, and sacred roles by Sarah Simmons. Simmons reuses text and garments to tell complicated stories of women, their words, their behavior, and their bodies. She gives new agency and power to discarded items by recycling them into new relevance as seen in the ten sculptures and their respective collage portraits included in this collection.

This exhibition will be on display through April 28.

Sewickley, PA

Mini Masterpiece features winning entry: “Sprig of Flowering Almond in a Glass” by Jennie Johnstone after Vincent van Gogh.

“A red line divides the picture plane. Van Gogh used the same red to sign this small painting of a sprig of flowering almond. Almond trees are the first to blossom in the spring.

When Van Gogh arrived in Arles (FR), there was still snow on the ground. On 2 March, a little more than a week later, he wrote to his brother, “There’s a hard frost here, and out in the country there’s still snow — I have a study of a whitened landscape with the town in the background. And then 2 little studies of a branch of an almond tree that’s already in flower despite everything.”
